HOME LEARNING

If your child is in reception:

please ask them to read the sounds in their green book. There are links to the first five sound videos on the memos section of tapestry to help with this.

If your child is in nursery:

Matching pairs is a fun game to play with your child and can be a great way of reinforcing names for objects.

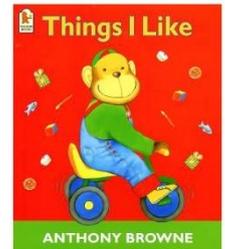

Try making your own cards with pictures on them. All you need is some paper, some scissors and crayons or felt-tip pens. Simply draw the same image on two cards. They can be simple drawings such as a flower, a bird or even a shape.

As you play, encourage children to talk about the various items. You could try flipping the cards over.

Can they remember where the matching cards are?

Dear Parents & Carers

Our class book this week has been 'Things I like' By Anthony Brown. This brightly illustrated book simply explains the different things the characters enjoy doing from swimming to making cake. We all enjoyed listening to the story and then sharing the different things that we enjoy doing when we are not at school.

This week we thought about the people in our lives who are special to us. We thought about the word 'family' and how it doesn't just mean the people who live in our homes. The children shared the people in their lives who are special to them and then drew their family trees.

In our independent challenges, we have been using scissors to cut a variety of different materials. We enjoyed snipping the bay leaves and lavender outside and trimming wool and collage materials to makes faces and members of our family.

In RWInc this week we have been thinking about how to write the sounds we have learnt so far. RWInc uses rhymes to help us remember how to form our letters correctly.

Have a wonderful weekend.

Our Vision & Values

This week we have been exploring how we are all special in the eyes of the lord.

Genesis 1:31 "And God saw all that He had made, and behold, it was very good."

Star of the Week

This week we celebrate
Rosa

Rosa is a constant shining example of our school values – always trying her best with her learning and being the most wonderful thoughtful friend to others.

This week's attendance is 100%
Well done to everyone thank you for your continued support in achieving our target
