Dear Parents and carers.

Wowzers! What a jam packed week of festive fun, frivolities and joyousness! We have had a blast in Oyster Cove this week, winding things down and finishing things off as we prepare for two weeks away and a chance to recharge, reset and enjoy some festive fun with our families at home.

The children put the finishing touches to their balloon cars (with a little help from a rather tall elf) and we have also managed to produce two incredible pieces of writing. The obligatory letter to Santa (just in case some hadn't got theirs off at home) and a wonderful character description of the Christmasaurus. Hopefully, they have been raving about this book at home. It has been a joy to read and I can't wait for the next class novel.

Lastly, it is now for me to thank each and every parent for all the hard work you put in with your children at home. They make so much progress in school but it is down to all the extra things you do at home that makes such a difference.

I wish you all a very merry Christmas and a happy new year. See you on the 2nd January 2024!
